

FLOOD OF BILLS IN LEGISLATURE FRIDAY

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Hartford, Jan. 28.—Another big rush of bills marked the closing day for the session of the legislature. The result is that there is much more business for the 1921 session than in the preceding session. However, all the preliminary work to be done by the legislature will be done by the committees. On Tuesday, the legislative committee will give hearings on resolutions appointing judges, which are the first to be disposed of. Among the resolutions assigned for hearing are:

Appointing Frank H. Hinchey judge of the town court of Stonington; appointing Lorenzo D. Fairbrother deputy judge of the town court of Stonington. Appointing Lewis Crandall assistant judge of the city and police court of New London; appointing William F. Woodward, judge of the town court of Putnam; appointing Charles S. Francis deputy judge of the town court of Putnam; appointing William H. Heald judge of the town court of Putnam; appointing Ernest K. Taft deputy judge of the borough court of Stamford.

These resolutions are unopposed and will be disposed of on Tuesday. All the resolutions will be taken up on Tuesday. The session, probably including New York, will be reached during next week. In the house there have been received since the session of the legislature and presumably as many more in the senate. At this stage of procedure, the actual session of the house and senate must necessarily be held next week, in order to give the many committees opportunity to meet and make assignments for public hearings.

The heart of the whole town has been greatly touched with sympathy that is shown in aid for the Graffs, who lost home furnishings, clothes, provisions and $50 in money by fire Monday night, Jan. 17, and are giving things needed to help the family make a new start. Fred Engstrom, a recent comer to Danbury, generously donated a subscription, he giving the largest amount so far. Everyone has not yet been seen. The amount will be announced later. Any who wish to add to their gifts or who may have been overlooked can bring or send gifts of money, furniture, clothing or supplies to the former Arthur Bennett place, now owned by Mr. Barker, where the Graffs plan to move shortly, or, if notified, Mr. Graff or his brother, a member of his family, will call for articles given. They have been guests of Charles Turner ever since the fire. Mr. and Mrs. Graff are most appreciative of the gifts received. There are a number of articles which different ones in town may be glad also to give to help them "get up housekeeping" they still badly need. Among these, underwear for all, clothing for the three small boys, 9.

The Near East and European relief work for starving children was the theme of the pastor at morning worship last Sunday. Sacrificing one meal during the week, as suggested for Tuesday of this week by the mayor of Norwich, was advised.

A special offering for the European relief is to be taken next Sunday morning, as the Christmas eve offering was for the starving Armenian children. All have been asked to come prepared with all they can give, as they would wish others to give, were their own little ones actually dying of starvation.
